THE CHALLENGE
Organizations are increasingly concerned about protecting their business from cybersecurity threats. Most cybersecurity threats arise from misused credentials. Identity & Access Management (IAM) encompasses the verification of identity, along with the operational aspects of granting and revoking access in a timely manner that lays the foundation for protecting critical business operations.

THE SOLUTION
Presidio’s IAM Program Assessment is designed to identify the gaps and help clients with establishing a plan to implement comprehensive policies and procedures for managed access controls. Presidio recognizes that our clients are pressured by the cybersecurity risks and by regulatory compliance to demonstrate the rigor required to protect their business-critical operations. The Presidio IAM Program Assessment covers key strategic areas.

The nature of each business will drive new cybersecurity risks specific to their business operations. Many business situations will create a need for a detailed understanding of your current IAM posture, and to develop recommendations suited to your specific situation.

- Mergers & Acquisitions (M&A)
- Certification of access campaigns
- User lifecycle management (provisioning)(ULM)
- Audit findings/governance requirements
- 3rd party management
- Single Sign-On (SSO) implementations
- Self-service password management (SSPM)
- Auditing and reporting
- Visibility enhancement
- Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA)

With advance planning, preparation and scheduling completed, a Presidio IAM Program Assessment is generally performed over 8-10 weeks.

KEY BENEFITS

Presidio focuses on the development and maturation of our client’s IAM Programs. A robust IAM program marries the people, processes, and technology to create a secured access system rooted in strategic values.

By meeting with our client’s business and technical stakeholders, Presidio collects viable information that can only be obtained from those charged with the day-to-day operations.

As a result of Presidio’s IAM Program Assessment, clients will gain:

- A complete understanding of their organization’s current state, including the gaps
- A pragmatic roadmap aligned to the organization’s internal and external resource capabilities
- An IAM Program strategic blueprint for several months to years that can be used as a starting point for budget conversations and project planning
